THE OLD GREEN ROOM MIRROR.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, BY MARK MEREDITH. It stands in its worn gilded frame,

A relic of years gone by; Alas! are the faces the same That gaze in its glass so high? The same as those spirits of light That looked in it long ago? How many have taken their flight. From the glitter and glare of the show? Yet the old green room mirror remains as clear, Reflecting new faces year after year!

The tragedy queen it has shone A face that was fair and grand; The clown, and the wrinkled crone Before it once used to stand; And comedy here has beheld Its figure so winsome, sweet; The coryphee, swaying her head, Has before it tripped light on her feet. But the old green room mirror it changes not, Yet those it reflected be now forgot!

What tale it could whisper of Life! What changes it must have seen ! What rivalry, sorrow and strife,
And glitter and glamour and sheen. What stars it has marked rise and set— It keepeth its chronicle well! And showeth not joy nor regret, Yet to all it a message could tell. For the old green room mirror, like life, has cast A flitting reflection—of grandeur past!

ZIDONIE.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, BY T. C. HARBAUGH.

Mine is a strange story.

I have told it to many; some have laughed, looking at me incredulously; others have simply bowed their heads without remark, and I have left them in their silence, stealing forth like a guilty man.

There still stands in the middle of the Rue Chalet, a narrow, serpentine street in gay Paris, an antique house of two stories. Inside it is a network of dark little rooms, and I have always thought that the builder, after his work was done, threw himself into the Seine for fear of having the making of that strange house put to his credit.

In one of the back rooms on the second floor l lived a twelvemonth, while I tried to delight Paris with light dramas, and gather together, not enough to live on, I could do that easily among the cheap bread stalls of the city, but francs enough to purchase a wonderful opal which tempted me whenever

My "masterpiece," my greatest work, was locked in my trunk, showing signs of having been through the hands of insatiate managers. It had come back to me with the certainty of bad coin, and at last, in disgust, I had tossed up a franc to see whether I should consign it to the flames or the depths of my

The managers always said that there was no actress in Paris capable of making a success as the star of the drama. I had made it too deep for the best of them, and now and then I would be advised to change it, but I declared that before I would do that both drams and author would grace the boards of the morgue, the rejected play in its unfortunate master's dead hands.

The opal tempted me so that at last I avoided the Rue Lafitte, turning down another street, where I ran the risk of getting held up by a gang of audaclous footpads, who did not hesitate to stop people Only once had I gone into the shop and priced the

But I was not so choice. I would have taken the blue opal if it had blazed on the bosom of some rabid murderer, for I wanted it with all my heart.

For a moment I was dazed. My light fell upon a beautiful young girl, drenched from head to foot, as I could see at a glance. She had been out in the street in the storm, and as she came across the carpet she left a trail of water there

There was an intense luster in her eyes of midnight darkness, and the tall, regal figure, which she drew up as she discarded the shawl that covered her apely shoulders, made me start.

What a star for the rejected drama," thought I could have brought her to the Rue Chalet on such a night, and especially to my house.

There was an empty chair near mine and I waved her towards it, but she did not sit down

I glanced at my trunk and she followed my look. 'That is the one," said she. "I want to see if I her lips to turn ashen.

She said nothing more, but read and read.

I watched her like one in a maze of doubt. Was flesh and blood, actually reading the drama which

I must have written for her?

Two hours passed in this strange and silent manner. She had not stirred. I could see that she was reading every word of the play, and tired of watching her I dozed and at last fell sound asleep.

When I opened my eyes the storm had ceased to shake the house and the light was burning as usual, but I was the sole occupant of the little room on the

One night I found myself in the Rue Lafitte. Of ate I had avoided the street, for it was the home of the accursed opal, and I had resolved that it had dazzled my eyes and tempted me for the last time. It was a clear night. There were great clusters of stars overhead, and a soft breeze came up the stree, tbringing with it the fragrance of flowers that the other inmates of the little house looked hither and thither in search of one and sprang into the first one found. It proved to be a poor affair and threatened to break down within the first mile, but that did not deter me from taking it.

I sank back into the dark corner of the rattle trap as it moved off, and bade the driver make all possible speed, promising him an exorbitant "extra" if he got me to the Rue Chamblette in a few minutes, which I knew was impossible

Arrived in the street, which as a battle ground for the Commune during the last days of its red existence is an historic thoroughfare, I watched the houses for the number.

I was there at last, and, springing from the flacre, which fortunately had carried me safely to the spot, I ran toward the door. The bell I jerked, wildly to be answered by an old man, who seemed to take umbrage at my call.

"Mile, Zidonie !" said I, eagerly pushing into the

"Merci! don't monsteur know that she is at the At the opera ?"

"It is the great opening night. She is to amaze Paris with her new play? Židonic went away an hour ago and will not come back till she is the queen of the hour-ma chere, Zidonie, as fair as the flower on our Breton hills." Hooked wildly at the old man a moment.

"You are Breton?" cried I.
"Jules Legard, the Breton. But you should see Zidonie tonight. We already call her that after the character she assumes. It is a great one."

"Who wrote the play for her?" "That is Zidonie's secret," grinned the old man.

I could hardly breathe.

"When did Zidonle come to Paris?"
He told me, but I caught his arm, sinking my fingers into it like claws.

"But she was here before?" I exclaimed. "She has been to Paris before that time."

"She went somewhere six months ago, and when she came back she had city ways, ha, ha!"

I waited only to hear the name of the opera house where Zidonie was to startle the people of Paris as a new star in the dramatic firmament, and then 1 bolted back.

This time the old flacre which had waited for me thought it the proper time to collapse, and I found myself in its ruins in the heart of the winding little Rue Lannes, dark, dingy, and almost tenantiess. I paid the Jehn and rushed off to the opera.

It was the same old story of the first night of a rising star. The gorgeous temple was filled from pit to dome; the last act was about over.

The exciting denouement had brought upon the stage the star of the night, and I saw in her the tall, the night of the storm.

It was the Breton, beautiful in her garments and flushed with a triumph which was destined to be come the talk of Paris.

I stood in the gallery like one spellbound. It was my play, but rendered so grand by the spell of her acting. The one Zidonie had been found; but who had found her? Like one in a maze I stood there till the curtain fell and then bounded from the spot. I would meet Zidonie. I would not upbraid her for the trick she had played upon me, no, not that; but I would tell her of the agony of the sleepless nights which had followed the loss of the drama.

But I missed her. She vanished as completely as she did the night of the storm. Perhaps she had seen me in the gallery, looking down upon her, and I remembered having seen her gaze upturned to where I stood It was past midnight when I went back to my rooms. I thought of the purchased opal, of the ride to the Rue Chamblette, and finally of the great tri-umph of "Zidonie" and the regal Breton girl.

My head was in a strange whirl when I reached my door. I opened it and struck a match.

"I have been waiting for you, monsieur," said a voice, as the little flame grew larger.

I recoiled, with the match flickering in my hand. but suddenly I grew calm and held it over my head,

Zidonie stood before me, the fair, tall Zidonie, the star of the night, the new beauty of the stage, and in her hand, which was ungloved and outstretched. lay the blue opal! "Forgive the trick, monsieur," said she with an

FROM OTHER POINTS.

The Waning Season Has Few Novelties Reports From All Points Show Good Business-Summer Attractions Waiting for Warmer Weather.

[Special Dispatches to The New York Clipper.] Boston, May 21.—Fairly good business began the week, and ruled generally at the half dozen regular theatres now open here, but the several houses were not crowded.....At the Grand Opera House "The Two Orphans" was revived, and drew an excellent house.....Rice's Surprise Party met with a hearty welcome at the Hollis Street Theatre, where they presented "1492" to a large and evidently well pleased audience. This popular historical extrava-ganza has been altered and materially improved. New features, music and melodies have been intro-duced, and the piece is more fetching than ever, and would hardly be recognized by those who saw its original production in this city.....An admirable performance of "Oliver Twist" opened what Manager Atkinson terms "Dickens' week" at Bow-doin Square Theatre, and the really line audience present fully manifested their appreciation of play and players. The piece is beautifully staged and presented by a thoroughly competent company

..... A beautiful production of Collier & Steven-son's comedy opera, "Dorothy," drew a good sized gathering of light opera admirers to the Castle Square Theatre, where this charming combination of music, mirth and melody begun the third week of what now appears to be the most success comic opera season ever given in Boston . Rejane began her second and last week at the Tre-mont Theatre under more favorable auspices than her first one. The weather was just cool enough to e very comfortable, and her admirers turned out in fairly good numbers to greet her in "Mme. Sans Gene," one of the best of her interpretations.....

"Trilby" and her handsome feet proved the strongest kind of an attraction at the Boston Theatre, and result was a most satisfactory attendance play has become very popular, and many who have seen it several times will regret its withdrawal..... Keith's New Theatre did a fair business during the day, and increased it to a noticeable degree in the The Howard Athenaum, "Billy Trilby" travesty and a strong variety show, was right in the front for patronage, and the vaude-ville and variety shows at the other popular price houses caught their full share of the shekels.

PHILADELPHIA, May 21. There is very little in the way of novelty here, but last night's openings were all good.....The Bostonians had a crowd at the ad Street Theatre, and sang for the first time here their new comic opera, which was well received. .. At the Chestnut "A Milk White Flag" had a rousing reception to wel-come it on its return....E. H. Sothern opened in "Lord Chumley," and crowded the Chest-nut Street Opera House......The Weston Brothers' Combination, at the Auditorium, had a good attendance..... "The Shaughraun," at the Girard Avenue, opened with a very good M. Holland and Joseph Holland both uccesses. .... At Forepaugh's Fanny Mein "The Cattle King," had no cause to complain of the attendance at the People's..... Miaco's Extravaganza Company began an engagement of indefinite length at the Lyceum and opened with a crowd. .....The Bijou was packed during the afternoon and evening, and the Museum had even more than the usual crowds.

CHICAGO, May 21 .- There are two important changes in local houses. "Aladdin Jr." opened last night at its home, the Chicago Opera House, for a run of several months. There was a tremendous crowd to welcome the extravaganza company home, and the production was so much delayed by encores, curtain calls and speeches that it was midnight before the finale was reached.....The other change was at Hooley's, where "The Birth of Venus" was presented for the first time in Chicago Sunday night. It is certain to prove popular with the panight. It is certain to prove popular with the pa-trons of Hooley's, who were out to the capacity of the house on both Sunday and Monday evenings.

... Fanny Davenport, in "Gismonda," continues o fill the Columbia. The advance sale insures a rilliant success.....At the Grand numerous improvements have been made in "A Black Sheep."..... The feature most discussed is the Trilby dance done by Minnie Renwood. 'She opened her engagement Sunday evening and was severely criticized by one of the afternoon papers, the effect being to pack the house last night ... At McVicker's the "Cotton King" is doing fair business.....George Fair's new venture, the Masonic Temple Roof Garden, opened Sunday afternoon with a large and elegant audience. The weather is very cold now for a roof garden, but as soon as it grows warmer this will be one of the most popular resorts in the city....."Jane," at the Haymarket, and "The Smugglers," at the Lincoln, both opened to good business.....The Schiller will be dark until June 8, when the Summer season of extravaganza begins.....Sousa, at the Auditorium, is not drawing large houses.

St. Louis, May 21.—Despite the inclement weather Sunday large and enthusiastic audiences were present at the opening of Terrace Park, The olicy of the new managers is broad and liberal. The Park is now one of the handsomest and most complete out of door resorts in the country. The regular vaudeville season opened Sunday night with a strong company, which presented a diversified programme. Monday night was damp and chilly, but business was above expectations. Free band concerts will be given every Sunday afternoon.....The continuous show at Havlin's Theatre was ushered in Sunday afternoon with a good at tendance. Manager Jones' intention is to give ar indoor show all Summer. There was an increase in attendance 20. The stock is presenting "East Lynne," and the specialty programme is good. The drama was well presented, considering it was the first performance by the new company.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Daniel Frohman's Lyceum Theatre Co. opened last night at Rapley's National Theatre, in "An Ideal Husband," to an excellent house ..... The Hinrich Grand Opera Co. opened the last week of its engagement at Rapley's Academy of Music, in "Il Trovatore," to a very large house. .....Frederic Bond and Company presented "The Guy'nor" for his fourth week's attraction at Allen'

Grand Opera House, to a well filled auditorium. True Irish Hearts," with Ed. W. Rowland as the star, opened a return engagement at Butler's Bijou Theatre, to excellent business .....J. A. Flynn's London Galety Girls had a packed house at Kernan's Lyceum Theatre.

MILWAUKEE, May 21 .- With an improved bill the Exposition Music Hall began its second week Sun-day, with good matinee and a repetition of the large opening business at night, while last evening the attendance was good.....The Davidson held very large houses Sunday with "The Passing Show." Baby Vavene, daughter of Frank Dodge, business manager of the Clay Clement Company, made her professional debut as a dancer at the matinee. The Wonderland did satisfactory business.

KANSAS CITY, May 21.—The Kemper Stock Co opened their second week at the Coates Opera House 19, and presented "School" to a good house .. At the Grand, Sunday afternoon, Emily Bancker in "Our Flat," had a fair house, with good attend ance at night......"In Old Tennessee," at the Gillis, played a return engagement to two big houses Sunday afternoon and night.

CLEVELAND, May 21,-Sells Bros.' Circus opened ast night to an unprecedented jam. The doors were closed before eight o'clock, and police protect tion was required. Miss Dutton, equestrienne, suf-fered a bad fall from her horse, sustaining a severe arm fracture......American Opera Company opened auspiciously at the Lyceum Theatre.....Hagen-beck's animals, at the Euclid Avenue, did fairly.

Variety and Minstrelsy *Miscellaneous*

Notes from Gorton's Minstrels.-We closed our Notes from Gorton's Minstrells.—We closed our season in Owasso, Mich., May 18. The season extended over a period of forty-three weeks in the Eastern and Sonthern States, and our business averaged fair, the first half being very good. Gorton's new private car, the Crescent City, was sent to Buffalo, N. Y., for a thorough overhauling and will reappear next season a most gorgeous affair. The noted Gold Band will remain the same as it has been for years, but the stage people will be entirely new to Gorton's clientele. New paper from the Courier Lithograph Company, of Buffalo, and Enterprise Print, of Cleveland, will help to swell R. F. Trevellick's already formidable list of advertising matter. The Gortons and Chas. H. Larkin will. As usual, spend the Summer in Friendship, N. Y.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA. Washington.—Nat C. Goodwin, always a prime favorite with Washington playgors, had an exceptionally good week at Rapley's National Theatre, presenting "A Gold Mine," David Garrick" and "Lend Me Five Shillings" (a double bill), and "A Gilded Fool," The third week of the comedy season at Allen's Grand Opera House was equally successful as its predecessors, the Frederic Bond Company presenting a two act comedy, "Irish Ambassador," followed by one act farce, entitled "Love's Alarms." The third, week of grand opera by the Hinrich Co., at Rapley's Academy of Music, was in every way worthy of the liberal patronage bestowed. "Rigolatto," "The Masked Ball." "Romeo and Juliet," "Mignon, "The Pearl Pishers, "Faust", and "The Barber of Saville," made an exceptional reportory, each of which was most artistically produced. The Ellen Vockey Company opened what promised to be a fair week at Butter's Bloot Theatre, but between a talling off in the patronage as the week worson, and the evident limes of Mas Vockey, the engage on, and the evident limes of Mas Vockey, the engage house was dark for the remainder of the week. The company, which has been making a short tour of the Previnces, terminated its existence here. The Fay Foster Big Burliesque Co. was, as usual, successful in drawing good houses at Kernan's Lycouri. Barnom & Bailey's "Great tents four performances, May 17, 18. #### RHODE ISLAND.

Providence.-Just at this "between season" time there is very little doing in the way of theatricals, although there are two houses whose season is not quite finished as yet. May 13, 14, 15 "Trilby" came here for the first time, and played to fair business at the Providence Opera House. Although the local papers were very unkind in the criticism, the people who saw the production spoke very highly of it, and the papers' opinion was not sustained at all. The balance of the week the Sandow Trocadero Co. made its first appearance, and gave a good show to good business. Treasurer C. C. Coller will be tendered a benefit 21 by Managers A. M. Palmer and Robt Morrow, and "Trilby" will again be seen. As Mr. Collier is a very popular young man, there will probably be a large attendance. The season from now on will consist of a very few scattering dates, and then the house will be dark for a long Summer season.

Westminster Theatre.—The casino (firs, a combination new to this city, made its initial appearance 13-18, and offered a few good torus, but upon the whole, a luch the new offered a few good torus, but upon the whole, a luch the principal drawing card, and did some really wonderfull things. This week a return engagement of the Rentz-Santley Co., an organization well known here, and, as always, the business will be large. For the following week a big burlesque and vaudeville show will be given. TROWERIDGE STAR THEATRE.—The stock company, headed by Fred and Alice Warren, in "Ten Thousand Miles Away," gave the best of satisfaction to good business 13-18. This week, retorn of the favorite, Max Freeman, supported by the stock, in "Burr Oaks." The season at this house will probably extend into June, or possibly July.

FOCED OUT.—There is certainly a scarcity of news to dthough there are two houses whose season is not quit ably July.

FOUND OUT.—There is certainly a scarcity of news to come under this head, as the season is too far gone by.

The Sandow Co. closed their season in this city 13.

Katherine Rober, well known on the Lothrop cir.

NOTES FROM RINGLI' G BROS.' SHOWS .- The Ring ling Shows closed their extraordinary Chicago, Ill., engagement April 28, and played their first road stand, Ottawa, Ill., on 20. The immense canvas was entirely new, the seats had been newly painted, and everything presented a fresh and bright appearance. Opened to excellent houses, and at Davenport, Ia., the next day, the show played to capacity. This was improved on at Peoria, Ill., where, at the night performance, people were turned away. The show played St. Louis May 6-11, against strong opposition, and the press of the city united in commending it as the best ever seen in St. Louis. The opposition style of advertising aroused a strong public sentiment in favor of the Ringlings. Society turned out strong to the show, and the performance did the rest. The matinee business for the week was excelent, but at night the ticket wagon was forced to close shortly after eight o'clock. People were turned away by hundreds, and the show, in its initial St. Louis engagement, caught the town to a finish. ing Shows closed their extraordinary Chicago, Ill.

They joined our show to do a high school menage and trick horse could do nothing without a lunge rain to hold him in the ring; therefore it was necessary for us to close them after one week's trial. They were paid one week's salary in full, and given a present of twenty-fire dollars towards paying expenses home. Our show is playing to good business, and we have had no reason to complain. Everybody with show is happy. We hold receipt in full from the Stewarts. Our treasurer has a smile on his face. Our mall agent is making a list of people who want CLIFFERS."

Last Week's Events.-The past week witnessed several important events, prominent among which were the first production of a light opera and the first presentation in this country of a new German opera. The great fall in temperature which occurred in the beginning of the week, and the steady continuance of cool weather, had a very beneficial effect upon business, and good attendance was the rule all along the line....The continued performances for the week ending May 18 were: "Pudd'nhead Wilson" at the HERALD SQUARE, "Lift-life Christopher" at Parkwere "Pudd'inead wilson" at the Harath Second the Christophers' at Palmer's, "Sowing the Wind" at the Empire, Richard Mansfield, in repertory, at the Garrick; Wm. H. Crane at the Fifth Avenue, "Can Much Johnson" at Trilby" at the GARDEN, "Too Much Johnson" at THOUGH ACTION ACTION AND ACTION ACTIO last named closing upon that date.... The one week stands closing May is were: "Oliver Twist" at the STAR, "The Police Inspector" at JACOBS' THIRD AVENUE, "The Two Orphans" at the PROPLE'S, "A Temperance Town" at the AMERICAN, and Augustin Daly's Co. at the HARLEM OPERA HOUSE.... Variety entertainment was furnished at Tony Pastor's, KOSTER & BIAL'S, the UNION SQUARE, PROCTOR'S, the CASINO, the LONDON, DORIS', the CENTRAL OPERA HOUSE, the COLUMBUS, the OLYMPIC, and MINER'S BOWERY and Eighth Avenue.....Performances in Hebrew were given at the Thalia, Windson and ADLER'S.... Sadie Martinot began on May 13 a fortnight's engagement at the BIJOU THEATRE, in "The Passport," which was then seen for the first time in this city. Max Figman was featured in the cast....
The Fifth Avenue Thratre was dark May 13, owing to the death of the mother of Wm. H. Crane. Mr Crane reappeared upon the following evening The Conreid-Ferenczy Opera Co. began a season of German opera at TERRACE GARDEN THEATER ON May 14, and gave upon that date the first performance in this country of "Der Obersteiger" ("The Master Miner"), a comic opera, in three acts, by Carl Zeller. Its story tells that Duke Roderich, the ruler of a district in Southern Germany, owns a mine, in which it suits his fancy to work incognito, he being known there only as Roderich. Martin, the foreman, leads the miners in a strike for higher wages. Mar tin has a sweetheart, Nelly, but he nevertheless falls in love with a pretty girl, who he supposes to be a milliner, but who really is the Countess Julie, who has run away from home to escape a distaste ful marriage. Julie, naturally, does not return Mar tin's affection in kind, but instead falls in love with the volunteer miner, Roderich. Under such circumstances the young Duke finds it convenient to emerge from his disguise, the result being his marriage to the Countess. Martin returns to his first love

Nelly, and the strike is settled by concessions to the miners. The work was thus cast: Duke Roderich, Max Monti: Countess Fichtenau, Bertha Prinz; Zwack, Emil Sondermann; Eifriede, his wife, Kitty

Wiesinger; Tschida, Herman Litt; Dusel, Martin Siegmann; Martin, Ferdinand Schuetz; Neille, Carba Englander: Strobl. Carl Delfs: Kilian, Fritz Lindner: Einoder, Joseph Siener; Nepamuk, Emil Glashoff. ... At the EMPIRE THEATRE, afternoon of May 14, oupils of the Empire Theatre School of Acting, assisted by several professional players, presented three one act plays, two of which thus had their irst production upon any stage. The first presented of these, "Edgar Poe," by Henry Tyrrell, presents some suppositious episodes in the life of that poet. One of its characters is William E. Burton, who, in good humored fashion, endeavors to assist the poet n various ways. There is really no story told in the play, which deals only with incidents, and is probably intended as a study of character. It was thus cast: Edgar Poe, Nelson Wheatcroft; William Burton, Alfred Fisher; Grissell, E. Y. Backus; Mrs. Clemm, Lillian Ohles; Helen, May Montedonico. The other novelty, "The Cup of Trembling," a romantic drama, by A. E. Lancaster, tells in blank verse a story of Italy wherein a patrician lady, whose afflanced husband has allowed his affections to wander, poisons her rival, and then discovers that the object of her vengeance is none other than her own sister. It was cast as follows: Count Guillo Mazzerino, Walter S. Hale; Dr. Amalfi, Herbert Flansburgh; Jacopo, F. W. Hill; Diomeda Caracci, Grace Reals; Vestalia, Reta Villers; Eola. Edith Randolph. The third play presented was the now familiar "The Three Miss Biddles."..... At PALMER'S THEATER, afternoon of May 16, an entertainment was given for the benefit of the charity fund of Edwin Forrest Lodge, Actors' Order of Friendship. Thomas Q. Seabrooke and his company pre-sented the first act of "The Grand Vizier," and William H. Crane and his company appeared in the third act of "His Wife's Father." Marion, Hayes and Marion, assisted by the Misses Winship, Bishop and Warren, appeared in the dance, "Ye Olde Time Belles and Beaux;" Wm. Gillette made an humorous address, the Merrillees Sisters pre sented their specialty, Bessie Bonehill sang, the Craggs gave their acrobatic act, and the performance concluded with the second act of "Mme. Sans-Gene," in which appeared Kathryn Kidder and the members of Augustus Pitou's company.....At the FIFTH AVENUE THEATRE, afternoon of May 16, a number of young ladies belonging to the fashion able set appeared in a series of decorous living pic tures at an entertainment given in aid of the Kinder garten and Potted Plant Association......At the Casino there was shown on May 16, for the first time upon any stage, an arrangement of living pictures designed by G. von P. Palm, and called by him "The Garden of Seneca." The stage was set as a garden, with growing palms, potted shrubs and blooming plants. At the rear of the stage was a marble gateway, and here and there amid the shrubbery were pedestals, some of which supported urns, but five of which were utilized for the living models, clad in white and posing as sculptured marble. Five tableaux were shown each employing the five models, and showing the

away the assembling of the Russian troops is shown. The rise of the curtain upon the third act discloses a Cossack camp, whither comes Vera in the garb of a vivandiere. She brings intelligence concerning the weakness of the French forces, and endeavors to hasten an attack upon them. She does not succeed, however, for the Russian commander hesitates, and the opportunity is lost because of the reinforcement of the invaders, and the scene closes with an exhibition of bravery upon the part of Kasimir. The final scene shows a Russian village in Winter, where all of the characters assemble, and where the triumph of true love is duly shown in the union of Vera and Kasimir. The story has many episodical additions, which not only fail to adorn it but involve it in almost inextricable confusion. Mr. Smith has little reason to be proud of his book. Its lyrics are, it is true, quite satisfactory, but its dialogue is without merit of any sort. Of wit or humor there is not a trace, nor is there any expression of sentiment which has the genuine ring Mr. De Koven has been more successful. The music which he has confributed to the work is in the main the most ambitious he has yet written. It displays great ability, and in many of its numbers shows refined taste and delicate fancy. It is, however, of provokingly uneven merit, and, although it shows great variety of rythmic form, it lacks distinction and fails either to delight the ear or impress the memory. Much of the music is too noisy, and, written as it was to order for a com pany of this sort, it must be considered a misfit. Taken in its entirety the score of this work has a technical value that will add to Mr. De Koven's fame, but it is lacking in those qualities which win a popular verdict of approval. Of the performance little can be said in praise. Miss Russell is not fitted either by temperament or vocal training for the satisfactory rendering of such music as was aliotted to her, nor did the vocal score afford such opportunities to the other principals as would enable them to be heard to the best advantage. The three comedians—Jefferson de Angelis, Fred. Solomon and Joseph Herbert—labored hard to make dull roles effective, and deserve much praise for their efforts. Mr. Herbert was the most praise for their efforts. Mr. Reflect was the most successful of the trio, in a strong character creation, and, in fact, he fairly won the chief honors of the occasion, in spite of the inadequate opportunities afforded him by the author. Mr. Smith should, by the way, write his books in two acts, for a third construction of his books he seems to meet with the sort of difficulty which, according to tradition, beset the Chinese in the making of a barrel. They succeeded, we are told, very well until they had put in the head. This they satisfactorily accomplished with the aid of a man upon the inside, but it still puzzled them how to get him out without spoiling their work. Mr. Smith has given us many an anticilmax in his third acts, not excepting that of "Robin Hood," but never has he succeeded in producing one so utterly stupid, so devoid of rest sonable motive, and so palpably like the mouse that came out of the mountain, as is the pucific finish of this work. Of those engaged in the creation and preparation of this work the principal honors fall to the scene painter, the costumers and the maker of properties. The stage pictures are full of speciacular effectiveness, and are unquestionably handsome, and owing to the wealth of embellishment, combined with telling choruses and exceedingly effec-tive orchestration, the work will attract a great deal of attention, and a successful career for it may be anticipated. It was thus cast: Veri, Lillian Russell; Maryska, Flora Finlayson; Kazimir Androvitch, Hubert Wilke; Vassili, Jefferson de Angelis; General Boguslay, Fred Solomon; Count Giulio Cesario, Joseph Herbert; Ninetta, Clara Lane; Sergius Suvaroff, Mr. McGurn; Prascovia, Clara Selden; Lieutenant Vladimir, Jeannette Perie; Lleutenant Stanislaus, Helen Beatrice; Lieutenant Gregor, Lotta Gale; Lieutenant Ivan, May Raymond; Naryschkin, Mr. Adamini; a page, Miss Foster. The scenery was painted by Henry E. Hoyt, the cos-tumes were made by E. Castleberg and Dazlan. after designs by Mme. Seidle, the properties were made by Edward Scidic, and the mechanical effects by C. D. McGlehan. Paul Steindorff was musical director, and the entire production was under the direction of Max Freeman . . . At St. James Hall, evening of May 25, the Idiers, an amateur organization, gave a performance of R. C. Carton's three act play, "Sunlight and Shadow," for the bene-flt of the pension fund of the Sandy Hook Pilots' Benevolent Association... The manage-ment of the Casino is again to change hands. The storm which has long been threatening the Aronsons has burst upon them, and on May is they were dispossessed. Lawyer George Freifeld, agent for the Bixby estate, which owns the ground upon which the Casino stands, obtained the dispossess warrant from Civil Justice Stiner, in the Eighth District Court, upon the ground that the Aronsons had-falled to pay one quarter's rent of $3,000 and two years' back taxes, amounting to $0,000, making a total indebtedness of $12,000. The warrant was served about 10 a. M., and every one in the building was required to leave the house. Subsequently the Aronsons were allowed to return, as an act of courtesy, that they might have the use of the office, and the employes, performers and must No performance was given either afternoon or night and performers were in great distress concerning their salaries. Litigation of some sort will doubt less ensue, but, unless the bondholders pay the in debusiness for taxes, or obtain some relief from the courts, it is likely that the Bixby estate will come into possession of the entire property without the payment of the $50,000 which, upon the termination of the lease in 1901, they would have been obliged to pay, according to the provisions thereof. sum, however, which is worth fighting for, and the end seems yet far off. Messrs, Camary & Lederer have been offered a lease of the house, but, at the time of writing, their decision has not been an

KEITH'S UNION SQUARE THEATRE .- Again was this house filled to repletion Monday, May 20, and those who occupied all of the the seating space and overflowed the standing room were entertained by a bill of straight variety that is rarely equaled. The three Yoscaris made their debut at this theatre and found immediate favor, their acrobatic work being fully worthy of the abundance of applause they were accorded. Inez Mecusker returned for her fourth engagement at this house, and introduced for the first time an act that for novelty and genuine merit has not been surpassed in the recent annals of vandeville creations. "Trehins of New York" is the title, and its enactment introduces a band of youngsters in street pastimes, and as the central figure Miss Mecusker sings a number of catchy melodies with the assistance of four little girls, whose talents add much to the act. In this turn an orchestrion is introduced with excellent effect, to play the airs and accompaniments to the songs, and furnish muste for the dances and froits of the little people. The act is a scene of continual animation, is decidedly original, and made the hit of the evening. Mand Huth and Billy S. Clifford entered the second week and last haif of their stay, and by virtue of their accomplishments maintained their usual station in the front rank of the favorites. Alice L. Hogdon, an attractive looking young lady, was made a favorite, her whistling being fully appreciated. George Evans, "The Honey Boy," returned to the scores of friends he made during his first engagement at this house, and by his sweet singing added all the new comers to his list of advocates. His finished work won for him well deserved success. Charley Diamond was by no means forgotien, his harp solos being a feature of the evening's entertainment. Others who contributed to the success of the downright excellent bill provided were Prato, an attractive young lady, in a finished dancing speciality; the three Gorman Brothers, in a negro act of considerable merit; Topack and Steel, in a political satire; Montague and West, in a musical act, and the Hewletts, in a well timed comedy boxing turn; W. J. Milis, in a monologue; Huber and Alien, in a comedy sketch; Tom and Jack Rossley, in a Cellit sketch; Thos. D. Van Osten, in a musical act, and the Hewletts, in a well timed comedy found immediate favor, their acrobatic work being fully worthy of the abundance of applause they were possession of the stage at this moise on Monday, May 20, for an engagement of indefinite duration, and, aided by a company of more than ordinary efficiency, presented an adequate revival of his suc-cessful comedy, "The Corner Grocery." The play is too well known to admit of extended mention at cessful comedy, "The Corner Grocery." The play is too well known to admit of extended mention at this time, but it can be said that the audience, which was of fair size, found plenly of cause for mirth, and expressed much satisfaction, through the medium of frequent applause, with both the play and the manner of its interpretation. The favorites of the supporting company were Air. H. Wilson, Jas. T. Kelly, Will Mandeville and James Devlin. The specialties introduced by the Manhattan Four were also well received. Mr. Sully has entrusted the reins of management to Hollis E. Cooley, who has the assistance of Frank C. Thayer as business manager and H. J. Keene as stage director. Should the engagement prove a financial success, Mr. Sully will revive other plays he has made familiar, "Daddy Nolan" being the first change contemplated. The cast is appended: Henry Budwelser, Aif H. Wilson; Jimmy Nolan, James R. Kelly; Lawyer Rapp, Will Mandeville; Tom Nolan, James Wall; Officer O'Plarity, Ben Grinnell; Messenger Boy, James Devilin: Detective, John Simpson; Billy Buttons, P. J. Curtis; Andrew Harvey, A. F. Williams; Plotz Peutsch, Al. Shean; Ed. Hayseed, E. C. Mack; Mrs. Nolan, Susan Martin; Jennie Burke, Miss Gerome Edwardyi; Michael Nolan, Daniel Sully.

Prople's Theatre.—Denman Thompson A Geo. W. Ryer's "Two Sisters" Co. are here this week. The theatre, on Monday, May 20, was well filled, and the simple but effective story of the lives of two sisters, amid metropolitan localities, was graphically told. The cast was evenly good, and the audience evinced their pleasure during the evening by frequent applause. Next week, Agnes Herndon. On Decoration Day an extra matinee will be given. The Genetit of the attaches of this house will occur on the afternoon and evening of May 24.

Proctok's Theatre.—A very attractive bill was presented by Manager Proctor May 20, for the week, and kept the house well patronized from the opening to the closing hours on Monday. George Fortescue and Richard Gorman appeared in a mirth provoking burlesque act, and the Four Richards. Acrobats, did some clever work. Mile, Fongere, chantense eccentrique, entered upon her second week with increased popularity, and Press Flairidge, with his funny isms, kept his audience in an uproar. The Three Si, Felix Sisters, in songs and dances, were well received, and Farnum and Seymour, acrobats, were accorded rounds of applause. The Garrisons, Jules and Ella, were entertaining in their comedy sketch, and won the approval of their audience for their clever work. Frank Cayton was an amusing mustcal move, and Kittle Clements won loud applause for her hig dancing while dancing a rope. She is an attractive young lady, and is easy and graceful in her work. Others on the square funder, and Theodore, ventriloquist.

Bioot Therarek.—Sadie Martinot, in "The Passport," entered May 20 on the second and last week. TONY PASTOR'S THEATRE.—The programme of straight variety provided for the current days is re-plete with stars, no less than three of the turns fur-nished having been at the head of traveling organizations during the past season. This popular house was filled completely on Monday, May 29, Vesta tzations during the past season. This popular house was filled completely on Monday, May 29, Vesta Tilley then entering upon the fifth and last week but one of her highly successful engagement. She rendered all of the songs she has made popular, and experienced considerable difficulty in quitting the stage after having sung herself almost to a point of exhaustion. John and James Russell were received as friends of long standing, and although their act has been made familiar by repetition, the audience was appreciative and very enthusiastic. Florence Bindley met a cordial greeting, and entertained her admirers in a very clever and satisfactory manner. Matthews and Bulger sang a long list of timely parodles, and, alded by a droll monologue, came in for abundant favor. Monti Collins and Norma Wils were well up in the list of the favorites, their work being received with much applause. Julia and Frances Wood, two very pretty young women, sang a number of songs with excellent effect, and were rewarded by hearty rounds of approval. Geo. Lewis and Miss Nealy Bouffon finished the programme with feats of contortion and clever aerobatic work. Kamoedh, a lady magician, opened the bill and made a very favorable impression by her neat appearance and acceptable work. The bill for next week, the last of Vesta Tilley's engagement, will include, among others, the Russell Brothers, Jas. F. Hoey and Weber and Fields, a list of performers worthy of profitable consideration by the patrons of this resort.

May 20 a week's engagement at this house, before an audience which was most encouraging in size May 20 a week's engagement at this house, before an audience which was most encouraging in size and lavish in the distribution of its plaudits. They manifested a thorough appreciation of the programme throughout its entire length, and gave the most applause to the four Nelson Sisters, whose efforts entitled them, beyond question, to the recognition they received. "Love vs. Mischief" was the opening burlesque, and at its conclusion Flynn and Zittella appeared in their familiar sketch, and Wrenn and Daly followed in several descriptive vocal selections, which contained nothing to recommend them, and were still greater stinted by a mediocre rendering. The Sheridans contributed an enfertaining sketch, and were liberally rewarded for their efforts, and the Challenge Ballet, which was disclosed next, proved to contain several meritorious features, and was kindly received. The musical team, Snyder and Buckley, then came in for a generous welcome, and gave way to Jack Burke, who illustrated in graphic and clever style, with the able assistance of Rose Burke, the different blows and guards of noted boxers. Their part of the entertainment proved an agreeable and novel one. They were followed by the Nelson Sisters, acrobats, who perform a number of feats which were surpassing in daring and wonderful in case of execution. "A Hol Night" brough the performance to a close. Next week, "The Still Alarm."

The Ann'lat Merting of the stockholders of the Madison Square Garden Company was held May 14, in the orlices in the building. The annual report showed that the Garden had come out $35,000 better than during the preceding year. There was no dividend, but the operations of the Garden paid the interest on the bounds, as well as caring for the running expenses. The old board of directors was reelected. It consists of F. K. Sturgis, J. Pierpont Morgan, Charles Laner, James T. Woodward, W. F. Wharion, H. I. Nicholas, H. H. Hollister, Herman Oeirichs, Stanford White, D. O. Mills and Adolf Ladenburg. CENTRAL OPERA HOUSE MUSIC HALL.—Manager Fred Meyser has studied the wants of his patrons, and each week endeavors to furnish them with an entertainment pleasing to all. The bill presented May 20 for week found general favor with the good sized audience that assembled in this attractive resort on Monday night. The Brothers Kodack, acrobats, appeared, and won much applaise for their clever work. Sadie Cushman and Herbert Holcombe, in a new musical comedly, were given a cordial welcome, and won many new friends. Rexo and Reno, acrobatic comedians, were well received, and Thomson and Burrell, musical comedians, were amusing. Carl Kado presented a novel ring act, and Hugh J. Emmett was an entertaining ventriloquist. Others on the bill were Richard Thomas, singer; Ida Russell, who calls herself the original Bowery girl; the Three Morellos, acrobats, and the Metropolitan Three. Next week Bonnie Thornton is announced.

GARDEN THEATRE.—Paul M. Potter's dramatization of "Triby" entered on May 20 upon the sixth week of its run. It has steadily drawn good houses. BROADWAY THEATRE.—This house was dark May 20, and will so remain all the week, to permit of preparations for the new opera, "A Daughter of the Revolution," which Camille d'Arville and her company will produce for the first time May 27.

FIFTH AVENUE THEATRE.—"HIS Wife's Father," in which Wim. H. Crane has met with well merited success, began on May 20 the thirteenth week and the last fortnight of its run. "For Fair Virginia," a drama, by M. Russ Whytal, is announced for presentation June 3.

last fortnight of its run. "For Fair Virginia," a drama, by M. Russ Whytal, is announced or presentation June 3.

Palmer's Theatre.—"Little Christopher" began on May 20 the sixth and final week of its stay at this house. It is announced that the extravaganza will again be seen in this city next season. Nothing is underlined to follow its present engagement, and presumably no plans have yet been consummated for a Summer attraction.

ENFIRE THEATRE.—"Sowing the Wind" entered on May 20 upon its third and last week at this house. The season closes 25, and the members of the stock company will then have an opportunity to enjoy their first vacation. The house will remain closed until Ang. 1.

WORTH'S MUSKEM.—In another part of this issue is noted the retirement of C. V. Moore as manager of the theatre department of this house. On May 20 F. D. Hewes assumed the management, with the following his of attractions: In the curio halls—Deah, hypnotic subject; De France, conjurer; also Prof. Worth's extensive collection of museum curiosities. The stage people include: The Irvings, Kittle Cushing, Fiske and Ogden, Wm. H. Glison, the Glidays, Carrie Fredericks and Bessie Carroll.

Koster & Bial's.—The management considered last week's programme strong enough to hold over without change, and, judging by the well crowded house which witnessed the performance Monday, May 20, the decision was not a bad one. Harriett Vernon began her second week in better voice, and of course was given a very flattering reception. The Brothers Rossow, although in their twenty-nint week, continue to be great favorites, and were greeted with loud applause. Stelling and Revell, buriesque bar performers (second week), won good recognition for their work, and the Meers Brothers, acrobatic wire performers (sixth week), were popular hold overs. The Craggs, acrobats, began their fourth week, increased favorites. The Sisters Don entered upon their eighth week, they appeared in new and attractive costumes, and sang a new song which found favor. Others on the bill were: Hill and Hull, grotesques (eighth week): Ivan Tschernoff and his troupe of trained dogs (minth week), and Fred H. Leslle, with his leaping dogs (second week). The programme concluded with the living pictures. During the intermission and after the performance the Hungarian Gypsy Band played in the promenade.

Edward E. Rick expects to open his new theatre, at Manhattan Beach, about the middle of June, with a burie-sque. Sons's Band will also be an attraction at Mr. Rice's theatre, and will give popular concerts at certain hours each day.

STANDARO THEATRE.—"Too Much Johnson" began May 20 its twenty-sixth week here. Good houses are the rule, and there is no indication that the popularity of the play is on the wane.

A. Jocos, advertising agent for the Central Opera House Music Hall, has returned from an European trip of six weeks.

Harlem .- At the Opera House business wa only fair during the first part of last week, but they were compelled to turn people away later in the week. "The Twentieth Century Girl" opened 29, to fair sized autiences. Next week, Sadie Martinot, in "The Passport." COLLMES.—Tennessee's Pardner," with Cora Van Tassell in the title role, opened 29, to one of the best Monday night houses of the season. Maggie Cline met with a warm reception. Next week, Monroe and Rice, in "My Junt Bridget."

OLYMPIC.—"The White Crook" Co. have no reason to complain, as they did a good business last week. The Watson Sisters Burlesque Co, began their first Harlem engagement 29, to a large and friendly audience. The brouze statues were introduced to the patrons of this house will this company, and created a sensation, and will, without doubt, prove a big drawing card. NEW YORK STATE.

Brooklyn.—The last week of the season but one witnesses some fine attractions at the local playhouses, and good business should be the rule all along the line. The novelty is not so great, but the character of the articles is of sufficient interest to be more than ordinarily attractive. Several of the houses have already closed, but the audiences of those still open enthuse as much now as they did earlier in the season, and good bills are liberally supported. Even a cursory glance at the illustrated and alvertised features of this week's offerings should be inducement enough to convince the public that an enjoyable anusement feast await them, and the theatregors bills offered are certainly hard to please. However, a good andiences were reported at the different houses on the opening night's performance, the public must be well pleased with the bookings.

COLIMILA—PROR ROY. Thus exceedingly entertaining and highly successful opera was produced, for the first time in a Brooklyn playhouse, night of May 20, before an audience that tairly tested the seating capacity of this spacious house, and the applause was loud and continuous enough to satisfy anyone. It made a decided hit from the start, and the company worked with undiminished vigor to make it a success with the audience. It is one of the most melodious and picturescue productions of its kind seen here this season, and will certainly play to be flowers. The east is a good one.

(Nemely to his patrons this week, beginning its engagement night of 20, when it was seen for the first time by an audience that filled the house. As a provoker of uproarious laughter it is undoubtedly a success. It is evident that it was built for pure entertainment. It is well filled with songs, dauces and travesties of a pleasing character. The people in it appear to have been carefully selected for the purpose of carrying the fun making idea out to the extreme limit. There are a number of specialities, which were cleverly executed and liberally applauded. Taken as a

RAYS FROM THE SUN SHOWS .- The World's Progressive is now in the third week of its season, and judging from the size of the receipts hard times are a thing of the past. Business has been uniformly good, though for ten days past the weather has been decidedly unpropitious. Day after day, while the chilly rain whirled by the blast from the lake, beat against the canvas and the shivering performers clustered about the fires in the dressing rooms, the audience packed the top to the ring bank and cheered the half frozen performers by wild huzzas of approval. An elegant span of spotted ponies and six head of massive dapple grays are recent additions to the equine department. Fay, the talented chef of the Hotel de Sun, presents us daily with a varied menu which is excelled by no show on earth. At Believne, O., the lot was found on arrival to be about three feet deep in mud, the wind blowing a gale and the mercury away down. So the Opera House was engaged and the entire show given (including aerial acts) to a large and enthusiastic andience. Mile, Availne badly twisted one of her ankles last week while doing her turn, but is working again. Gus sun and Tony Crandali, of the advance brigade, spent Sunday with us May 19. Comedian Bob Harris is busily engaged in putting on afterpieces for the concert. "The Easy and Ancient Order of Bucking Goats," a rainy day club, has been formed and has a large membership. Good houses, good roads, weekly ghost, all well—nuff ced.

Notes From the Sattelle & Ewer Shows.—We opened our season in Syracuse May 9, and, notwithstanding the bad weather, have played to a big business ever since. The show this year is larger than ever. Everything is bright and new and in smooth running order. We carry ninety-seven people and one hundred and six head of horses, with two agents and four bill wagons in advance. Tom Ewer, brother of Chas. Ewer, the rider, and partner of Mr. Sattelle, went ahead last week to do press work and take charge of advance No. 1. Everybody is happy, and things look bright for the "old reliable." Notes From the Mohawk Valley Circus.—We loom up this week as happy as ever, after a good old ghost walk last Sunday. DEATHS IN THE PROFESSION.

THOMAS BOLTON, an actor, died May 18, in Philadelphia, Pa. The deceased, who was about fifty-five years of age, was a native of kingland, and had been upon the stage for a number of years. For several years past he had been a member of Wilson Barrett's Co., and was with that organization at the time of his death. He had recently been attacked with fits of an epileptic character, and, although he had one on the day of his demise, he appeared at the matinee performance with the company. He failed to appear in the evening, and a messenger, who was sent to ascertain his condition, found him dead on the floor of his room in the hotel where he was stopping. The deceased leaves a widow, who is an actress, and is now playing in Australia.

William Monnos, trainer and circus rider, died May 16, at the Beits Street Hospital, Cincinnati, O., from consumption. The deceased, who was well known in his profession, was forty-eight years of age, and had been in the circus business for thirty years. He began as private hostler for James Robinson, the famous bareback rider, who taught him to ride. Mr. Monroe manifested great talent for handling stock, and soon was riding one of the best four horse teams in the country. He had, at various times, been trainer for all of the big circuses in the country. His first big success was made as equestrian director for the old Adam Forepaugh Show. In 1829 he joined the Great Wallace Show, and put on its hippodrome. He had been ailing for some time, but had only been in the Betts Street Hospital a few days when he died.

Harry Toner, of Toner and Troebel, horizontal bar performers, died May 10, in this city, from consumption. He leaves a widow, professionally known as Sophile Helinecke, and one child. The interment occurred 14, under the auspices of the Actors' Pund.

Y., over a course of four indies, straightaway. The course was laid out and measured May 19, and begins in the middle of the Hudson River, about three miles and a half North of Poughkeepsie, and extends past that city to the edge of its southern liquits. The river from the start to the finish of the course is not over a half mile wide, so that smooth water is the rule. The four miles of the course are near the West Shore R. B., with no cuts or trees intervening, so that a spiendid view of the race can be obtained from observation trains.

The yacting season in highlish waters was opened May 17, when the New Thames Yacht Club inaugurated its annual Spring regatts. Interest centred in the contest between the Britannia and the Alisa. Two paces, sailed May 17, 18, were won by the Britannia in a very handy manner, adding to the general opinion that she is evidently the better all 'round sailer of the two. After Alisa's defeat the first day, interest in the racing fell off to such a degree that the attendance was extremely limited when the second day's contest was sailed.

Now, some time ago I swam for that title against a large field composed of all the lady swimmers in England, and came in second. There was a Miss Beckwith in that race, daughter of the famous Professor Beckwith, her name being Lizzle, and her sister Agnes, these being the only live female members of that family. I won, and have the medal to show for, the title of "Champion Lady Ornamental Swimmer of the World" at the Universal Exhibition, Antwerp. My present tille I won when fourteen years of age, in Melbourne.

I would like to know who Miss Cora Beckwith swam against for the title of champion of the world, and when she won It. I would not have been so much surprised had she claimed the title of champion lady swimmer of the Finited States. As this is the title I crossed the ocean to compete for, I hereby challenge Miss Cora Beckwith, or any other lady swimmer of a leave the ocean to compete for, I hereby challenge Miss Cora Beckwith, or any other lady who wishes to accept the challenge. I am here for business, and desire to win the championship in a fairly contested race, in open water, and not to have the title conferred on me by my business agent. is rapidly approaching completion, the force of workmen engaged in its construction pushing the workmen engaged in its construction pushing the good thing along with vim. The track will be one-third of a mile long and will be built with such correct proportions of curvature and banking as will secure the highest speed and safety: The banking will be so arranged that tandem and quadruplet machines can race at the highest speed. The curves are so slight at their beginning that the practical straight line of the track will be almost as long as the Springfield course, which is half a mile. It is said that the new track will be in condition early in June, so that the racing men can do their training for the New York State Division meet.

An Unsatisfactory Boxing Show.

The Atlantic Athletic Club, after a long season of nactivity, opened their arena in the Seaside Palace, at West Brighton, Coney Island, on Monday even ing, May 20. They had arranged three boxing bouts, and, aithough they did not promise much sport, they served to attract a paying crowd. Had the patrons known what was in store for them, however, very few of them would have made the the patrons known what was in store for them, however, very few of them would have made the trip. The first bout brought together "Dolly". Lyons and Maxey Haugh, who engaged in a ten round glove contest, which during the greater portion was a case of Jack as good as his master, but toward the close showed Haugh to be rather the better of the twain. The referee, John F. Eckhard, however, gave the verdict in favor of Lyons, which brought a storm of disapproving shouts from the crowd. The decision was not disturbed, however. The second engagement was between Dan Creedon, one of the City of Salt, where he is pretty well thought off. However he may have gained the local reputation which induced a goodly delegation of his personal friends to accompany him from Syracuse, certain it is that he proved to be anything but a match for the Antipodean, who pounded him at will, eventually knocking him out after being together 2m. 7s. in the second round. They had been billed to mill twelve rounds, and Dunfee and his friends were much crestfatien over his sorry showing and quick defeat. The next bout, which was expected to be the star battle of the occasion, the principals being Peter Maher, the Irish Lad, and Bob Marshall, of England, about whose ability little was known, but who was "cracked up" to be a good 'un, proved even shorter and more of a disappointment than the preceding contest. Marshall was simply a chopping block in the hands of his clever, hard hitting opponent, to whom he succumbed in the first round, after being repeatedly knocked flat, the police putting a stop to the bout when it was clear that he had no chance. He did not appear to know anything about the game, and the club came in for many denunciatory remarks for putting up a man about whose abilities as a boxer they knew nothing. Maher was heartlly cheered for the display he made.

The Anti-Boxing Bill Killed.

The Horton anti-sparring bill was reconsidered in the New York Senate on May 16, and was lost by a the New York Senate on May 15, and was lost by a vote of 14 yeas to 15 mays. Senator Sullivan moved to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed. He was assisted by Senator O'Connor, who said the bill appeared to have an ulterior motive. Senator Sullivan said certain persons down in Gravesend had threatened to pass such a bill unless they were 'ejet in' on the Senator thines said Mr. Horton drew the bill to prevent auch bright subdivides as resulted in a major death in brutai exhibitions as resulted in a man's death in Syracuse during a sparring exhibition. Senator Sullivan said Mr. Horton had agreed to accept an amendment excepting the athletic close, but it had not been done: As the bill now stands it would close everysathletic club in the State, and even pre-vent exhibitions in armories.

Previously to going to Rochester he resided for some time in horizo, where he was proprietor of a restaurant called "So Different." This name was original with him, as the place was entirely different from any restaurant in the country. He leased a store in a burned out building in the heart of the city, threw lime on the waits with brooms, put in clean soap boxes for chairs, drygoods boxes for tables, rough beards for a bar, and an art gallery of a strictly moral obaracter, the whole of which proved an innovation and resulted in his decing a phenomenal business, and daily adding to his circle of friends and admirers. Through the persuasion of Rochesterians he was induced to establish a similar place in that city.

bick O'Brien and "Kin" McCoy were pitted against each other at the rooms of the Suffolk Athletic City, flowing, Mass., on Monday evening, May 30. In the presence of about three thousand persons, The contest between them was tame in character, O'Brien taking the offensive at the start and maintaining it throughout, while McCoy adopted defensive tactics, contenting himself with avoiding his adversary's rushes and dodging his deliveries. Consequently there were comparatively few exchanges, and at the end of the swenty fifth round, the agreed upon limit, a draw was in order.

The Evans Gambit.

The Evans Gambit.

It is notable how chess ebbs and flows in its prevailing styles, something like the tides, though its periods are of years—a period tull of life, brilliancy and imagination, making chess what it intrinsically should be, a charm, a solace, a recreation. Anon, comes a wave of dullness, heavy, cramping, forbidding. The excuse for this is, usually, "science."

Then comes upon the field some towering genius, who relights the sacred fires. For this he receives the plaudits and following of all who prize the game as a recognized intellectual relaxation from the weariness of cares and the perplexities of serious duties. Then it is that the game takes its great strides forward towards general appreciation and practice.

Now is coming a tidal wave of the "Evans," and it is welcome; for we have no fear that the infinite variety of this marvelously tenacious gambit will, at present at least, be vary seriously curtailed, or its brilliant popularity be very much dimmed.

Every much dimmed.

The following close the charmon will a present at least, be vary seriously curtailed, or its brilliant popularity be very much dimmed.

The following for publication his exposition of this tenacious attack—both of them laboring to elucidate a tenable defence. Herr A. is reported to have played twenty-five defences vis Judge Labatt in New Orleans, Judge L. being a conspicuously gifted exponent of this attack, with the following result: Drawn, 2; Judge L., 5; Herr A., 18.

The following clue to Herr Lasker's views of the defence has been published in advance of his book. His three leading thoses are: 1. The "Compromised Defence" is tavorable to the second player; 2. The "normal form" of opening yields White a leasting and very dangerous attack on the K's side; and 3. There is a simple and safe way to evade all diffluctiles if flack gives back at once his acquired Pawn. Here is the key to his demonstation: White. Black. Loyd has a stalemate game in tector nerves, from the original postion of the forces, with the stipulation that neither side is to lose a man Mr. L's solution pure two men. Therefore our contributor wishes to modify his proposition to this—"White to play into a stalemate in sixteen moves, without losing a man, or having one pinned."

Cleveland vs. Boston.

Two games for one admission were played by these teams May 16, at Cleveland, O., when honors were equally divided. Rain caused postponement on the two preceding days. The opening game, being the postponed one, was won by the Bostons, after a close and exciting struggle. It was a battle roval between the pitchers, in which honors were pretty equally divided. Nichols held his opponents down to live safe hits, including a double bagger by O. Tebeau, while only six safe hits, including a double bagger by Bannon, were made off Wallace. The Bostons were more fortunate in bunching their hits. Both pitchers were hit harder than the score indicates, as many ortillant running catches on both sides kept the score down to small figures. The fielding of McKean and McAleer, with O. Tebeau's batting, were the features.

St. Louis vs. Brooklyn.

The third game between these teams, May 14, at St. Louis, Mo., was won by the home team, after a close and exciting finish. It was anybody's game until the eighth inning, when the home team pound-ed out four runs, three earned, and virtually settled until the eighth inning, when the home team pounded out four runs, three earned, and virtually settled it in their favor. Lucid and Clarkson both pitched effectively, only two runs being scored off each until the eighth inning, when a single, a triple and a home run gave the home team four runs. In the ninth the Brooklyns added two more runs, bringing their total up to four runs. The long safe hits were a home run by Dowd, triple baggers by Anderson, Peitz and Quinn, and a two baser by Corcoran. The fielding of Daly, Corcoran, Quinn and Ely, with Dowd's batting, were the features. Lucid's apparent weakening in the eighth inning was a source of disappointment to the Brooklyns, who had counted on him to win the final game of the first series, so that they could leave St. Louis with two victories over the home team instead of only one.

Louisville vs. Cleveland.

By bunching their hits in the first and third innings the Clevelands easily defeated the Louisvilles, May 19, at Louisville, Ky. Cunningham was knocked out of the pitcher's position in the third inning. Knell replaced him in the fourth, and the latter pitched a magnificent game, preventing the visitors from scoring again. Cuppy proved an enigma to the home team, allowing them only one run until the eighth inning, when he apparently let up, and during the last two innings three more runs were scored. McGann and G. Tebeau led their respective teams in batting. The long safe hits were a triple bagger by McKean, and double baggers by McGann, Brouthers and Zimmer. ings the Clevelands easily defeated the Louisvilles.

Louisville vs. Boston.

These teams met for the first time this season May 17, at Louisville, Ky., wet grounds having caused a postponement of the scheduled game on the preceding day. The visitors outplayed the home team at all points. Cunningham was knocked out of the all points. Cunningham was knocked out of the pitcher's position in the fifth inning, and Knell was substituted, and succeeded in checking the onslaught, he preventing the Bostons from scoring again. Dolan pitched for the visitors and was very effective, keeping the hits made off him well apart. The long safe hits were a triple bagger by Shugart and double basers by Duffy and Dolan, the latter making two

St. Louis vs. Baltimore.

The Baltimores were beaten by the home team May 16, at St. Louis, Mo., after an exciting uphill struggle. The champions started off like winners by scoring two runs in the first inning, but could do nothing with Breitenstein's pitching after that, and Bases on balls, which were followed by timely batting, enabled the New Yorks to reverse the above result May 17. Boswell was sent in to pitch for the visitors, and he did fairly well, keeping the hits made off him well apart, except in the first, third and sixth innings, when the home team scored all their runs. Colcolough started in to pitch for the home team, but had such poor command of the ball that he retired at the end of the third inning. Killen replaced him in the fourth, but he, too, was wild in giving bases on balls; besides, he was freely batted at opportune times. The long safe hits were triple baggers by Bannon, Donovan, Beckley and Clingman, and double baggers by Davis (twice) and Stenzel. Van Haltren's batting was so weak that he was replaced by Murphy in the fourth inning. Impire Bett's decisions caused considerable wrangling on the part of the visitors.

Pittsburg vs. Washington.

The Pittsburgs succeeded in defeating the Washingtons May 20, at Pittsburg, Pa., after an exciting finish. Mercer proved a puzzler to the home team for seven innings, allowing them only three scatter for seven innings, allowing them only three scattering singles, and shut them out without a run. In the eighth, however, he seemed to let down, and the Fittsburgs batted in four runs, then added two more in the ninth, with only one man out. The long safe hits were triple baggers by Joyce, Coogan, Abbey and Beckley. Donovan and Selbach led their respective teams in batting. Hawley also pitched a good game, keeping the hits made off him well scattered, except in the first and ulinth lunings, when the visitors bunched enough hits to earn four of the five runs scored.

Manager Hanion, of the Baltimore team, who was chairman of the Committee on Rules, in recently speaking about the way some of the umpires interpret the rules, said: "It seems to me that some of the umpires mistake the spirit of the new rules. These rules were intended to protect the umpire in the performance of his duties from abuse from rowdy ball players, and also to rid the game of prolonged and senseless kicking. But in the interpretation and execution of the rules the umpires should use discretion and good sense. Ball players are not school children, nor are umpires schoolimasters. It is impossible to prevent expressions of impatience or actions indicating dissent with the umpire's decisions when a player, in the heat of the game, thinks he has been unjustly treated. The public don't look for that, and don't want it. They like to see a little scrappiness in the game, and would be very much dissatisfied, I believe, to see the players slinking away like whipped schoolboys to their benches, afraid to turn their heads for fear of a heavy fine from some swelled umpire. The wise umpire will overlook these small things, and will only resort to the power which the rules have given him on extraordinary occasions, as when some tough ball player uses profane language to him, or persists unreasonably in disputing his decisions. I think some of the umpires have already gone too far in the matter, and have shown themselves very much lacking in discretion and good sense."

in the matter, and have shown themselves very much lacking in discretion and good sense."

President Brush, of the Cincinnati Club, has decided that the repeated maining of players should be stopped, and he proposes to inaugurate a move that will cause the suppression of all brutal conduct on the ball field. In recently speaking about the matter he said: "It is high time that a halt was called on this business. No team that goes against the Pittsburgs is safe. Such work as the Pittsburgs have been practicing on the Reds will have to be stopped. Last season we carried two players for several months when they were unable to work because of injuries received from the Pittsburg players. This year we have had three casualties in the six games that have been played with them. Under these circumstances is it not proper and incumbent on me to see that my men are protected in some way. Something must be done and done quickly to stop this abominable practice. It takes money out of the treasury of the team that is heralded as a band of rowdies, and if a precedent can be established through which a team can claim damages for injuries maliciously inflicted on a player, the officials of the offending club will soon come to their senses and prohibit 'dirty' playing, sooner than go into their pockets for several hundred dollars every time one of their players injures another."

In the game between the Buffalo and Scranton teams, of the Eastern League, May 19, at Buffalo, N. Y., a peculiar question arose in the fifth inning. Drauby and Wise were on first and second bases and Field on third base. Clyner hit to centre fled fence, and Johnson fielded the ball. Field came home, but neither Drauby nor Wise moved from the bases. The play was a forced one, and the side was really retired, but the Scrantons did not recognize the fact, and but the ball into play. Then they kicked, and Umpires Descher and Snyder were kept busy for half an hour trying to straighten matters. Finally it was decided that Clymer was out at first base for not having touched the bag. #### THE TURE.

FLAT RACING IN THE EAST.

The Brooklyn Handicap Won by Horn-pipe, an Outsider.

The Spring meeting of the Brooklyn Jockey Club opened May 15, the events of the day inaugurating the flat racing season in this locality. The Graves-end track was made heavy by the severe rains of the preceding day, but the going was nevertheless sufficiently substantial to admit of fine racing. The chief event of the day was the Brooklyn Handicap, one of the principal fixtures of the racing year, and owing to the number of crack horses posted to face Starter Jas. Rowe unusual interest was manifested by the devotees of the turf. The attendance was estimated to be fifteen thousand, and included the customary mingling of all grades of society. The new racing laws put a strong bar-rier against promiscuous betting, but the layers was estimated to be inteent indusand, and included the customary mingling of all grades of society. The new racing laws put a strong barrier against promiscuous betting, but the layers of odds were plentiful, and those who were known, or could be vouched for, found a liberal number of hand books for the reception of their colu. Three races claimed attention before the field for the handicap left the paddock, and by the time the race was called the vast crowd was thoroughly prepared for the event. Dr. Rice, Ramapo, Sir Walter and Rey El Santa Anita were most in demand among the bettors, and as the talent could see nothing aside from these entries, the result of the race was keenly disappointing to that class, but to the real sportsman the splendid conquest of Lazzarone by the nervy little Hornpipe, in the last furiong of the distance, was recognized and genuinely enjoyed. The horses were at the post twenty minutes before Starter Rowe dropped the dag, at 4.50 p. M., and the break found everyone well provided for save Ed. Kearney, who was almost left behind. Misfortune continued with this horse, as he fell near the seven furlong pole and withdrew. Assignee set the running and maintained first position until well into the back stretch, when Sir Walter took the lead. Just before the head of the stretch was reached Lazzarone, who had been mercliessly driven by Murphy, suddenly came with a great burst of speed, and in fifty yards he was at Sir Walter's saddle skirt. Soon he forged ahead, and was pointing for the finish when Hamilton began riding Hornpipe with a dash of science that soon brought him past Sir Walter and to a challenge with Murphy on Lazzorone. Murphy's mount falled to respond, and with each stride Hornpipe cut down the lead until a dozen yards from the finish Hornpipe's head forged to the front, the head lengthened into a long neck, and when the judges were reached Hornpipe was the victor by a good half length. The events of the day are summarized below:

Honnerpe, the winner of the Brooklyn Handicap, has run his last race in the opinion of William Lakeland. The next morning when the lad whose duty it is to care for Hornpipe went to the horse's box to open it for the day and prepare his morning meal, he noticed that the horse was very lame. He communicated the intelligence to Trainer Lakeland and it did not take that clever turfman long to ascertain that the trouble was most serious. The horse could not move about in his box and it was impossible for him to walk, so bad was the injury to his nigh foreleg.

THE CROKER-DWYER estrangement, reported from

THE CROKER-HWYER estrangement, reported from England, has been denied. In a late interview Mr. Dwyer said: "There is absolutely no truth in the report that Groker and myself have had any differences. We took a training stable together. Our horses are there, and we were never more agreed or better friends in our lives."

The Saratoga (N. Y.) Racing Association on May 1s, declared off the programme for its Summer meeting. A new and less extensive programme, having fewer events and of curtailed value, will be arranged and given to the public as soon as possible. M. F. Dwyer's aged gelding, Banquet, won the selling plate at Newmarket, Eng., May 16, over the Ditch mile. Banquet was bought in by Mr. Dwyer for £1,585.

Oursider, a three year old gelding, feil and broke one of his legs in the sixth race at Alexander Island, May 14, and had to be destroyed.

Racing at Chicago

Is practically at an end, as the Civic Federation seems determined to hamper and discommode all of the tracks, for the present at least. The owners of the Eastern stables have begins the horse elsewhere and have concluded that the game is up. Marcus Paly's string will return East at once. Rogers will also take his stable away, but as he has some horses entered he may race these before leaving the city. The Eastern men are not at all pleased by the action of the various track authorities in bringing them West and making them because the way of meding.

Kenticky thereous.

KENTICKY thoroughbred breeders are evidently much alarmed at recent events, and at an impromptu meeting held May 20, at Lexington, Ky, the litue Grass horsemen decided that the stoppage of racing at Chicago and the legislation against betting in this State would seriously damage their business. It was further agreed that unless legitimate breeders and turfmen take charge of racing and refuse to allow the gambling element to continue in control, every Legislature in the Union will pass laws in imical to racing.

In Favor of Gideon.

At the General Term of the Supreme Court, in this city, May 17, Judge O'Brien handed down an opinion sustaining the complaint in the action brought by David Gideon against Philip J. Dwyer to recover $50,000 damages for slander, affirming the judgment of Justice Barrett, who overruled the demurrer which had been interposed by Dwyer, upon the ground that the complaint did not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, holding that there was a cause of action for the words complained of.

Lesije Balfour Melville defeated John Ball in the final contest in the tournament for the amateur golf champlonship of England, played at the St. Andrews links, London, May 10. The last hole was played amid considerable excitement. Balfour-Melville drew his approach and gave himself too much to do, and Ball won the hole and squared the round, and kept himself still in the running. Playing off the tie, the English player got into the burn with his pitch to the green, and Balfour-Melville easily won, thereby becoming champion for the ensuing year. His victory was very popular and he was greeted with loud cheers. Ball, the former champion, has been regarded as the finest golfer in the world, he having won the championship four times and the open championship once.

HARVARD VS. YALE.

Trouble Between the Colleges in Regard to Football Matters.

The correspondence that has passed recently be-tween the football officials of Harvard and Yale Universities in reference to the arrangement of a game to take place in the Fall, as has been cus-tomary for years past, has been given out and will tomary for years past, has been given out and will be found below. As was anticipated by the Harvard men, the athletic committee are not able to comply with the request made by Yale, and utterly refuse to apologize for or contradict the charges made by a Barvard coach, reflecting on the Yalencians in connection with the last game at Springfield, Mass. Here is the letter sent by Yale to Harvard:

neid, Mass. Here is the letter sent by tale to Harvard:

YALE UNIVERSITY,
NEW HAVEN, CONN., May 11, 1895.

MR. ARTHUR H. BREWER., Dear Nic: 1 regret that your illness prevented your coming to New Haven, as you proposed doing in your letter of April 23. Your visit would have given me the opportunity of informing you of Yale's position with regard to a Harvard game next Fall.

During the last four or five months charges have been made against our team, repeated with persistence, the original charge having come from a Harvard coach. We steadily refrained from complicating the situation by any recriminations or statements, except by publishing a denial on the part of the officials of the Springfield game of the truth of the charges, which reflected not only on the Yale team, but on the good name of our university itself.

While we do not hold you or your team responsi

While we do not hold you or your team responsible for these accusations, it was in your power to have contradicted them, and thus to have neutralized their serious effect, not only upon us, but upon the sport. Under these circumstances we feel that it would not be for the best interests of footbail or of the universities to run even a chance of a repetition of Yale's experiences since the liarvard game. Chess, then, such contradictions come from you, would it not be wiser to allow the feelings thus en gendered to cool with time rather than to enter upon a contest with these recollections still fresh in our minday. Should you still be unwilling to do us justice in this way, we have concluded to arrange no game with you. Let me assure you, however, that, in case a proper contradiction of the charges is made, we shall take pleasure in arranging a game with you, and have up to this time reserved a date in the hope that it may be brought about.

Other negotiations will not permit us to hold that or any other date open later than May 22. Very truly yours,

To this the athletic committee of Harvard returned the following answer:

the following answer:
HARVARD UNIVERSITY

HARVARD UNIVERSITY,
CAMBRIDGE, MAY 18, 1895.

TO THE ATHLETIC AUTHORITIES OF YALE UNIVERSITY,—Dear Sires: The recent letter from Captain Thorne to Captain Brewer, which raises an important question of intercollegiate athletic policy, has been referred to the Harvard Athletic Committee.
The committee, believing that it would have been better to let bygones be bygones, regrets the revival of the discussion concerning the last Springfield

Since, however, Captain Thorne asks Harvard to contradict the opinions publicly expressed '\text{$\epsilon$} be her chief coach the day after the game, the committee must frankly say that compliance with this request is impossible. There is nothing in the feeling of the Harvard players or of Harvard men generally which would prevent their meeting the Yale men next November in a spirit of generous rivalry.

If, however, the feeling at New Haven is such that Yale is unwilling to arrange a game with Harvard for next Autumn, the committee can only express the general regret of the Cambridge men that the two colleges must lose this opportunity of showing that they have the will and the ability to play football with each other in a friendly and sportsmallke spirit. Yours truly, James Barr Ames, lowa College, of Grinnell, defeated the State University of lowa at the first annual meeting of the Iowa Dual Athletic League, at Iowa City, May 18, John V. Crum, of the University, is credited with breaking the intercollegiate record and the lowa preaking the intercollegiste record and the lowarecord for one hundred yards, 10½ s., lowering the figures to 10s. He also reduced the Iowa State record in the 220 yards run from 23s. to 225 s., and the lows State record of the 220 yards burdle race from 28s. to 264 s. The lowa record in the 161b hammer throw was broken by Blodgett, of Grinnell, who raised 93ft, 6in, to 100ft. Spaulding, of Grinnell, broke the two mile record of Iowa, changing it to 5m 35s.

Chairman Harvard Athletic Committee.

JIM SMITH, the veteran pedestrian and trainer, i on a visit to the city, renewing old acquaintances among the sporting fraternity, and observing the changes that have taken place in the metropolis during the years that he has been absent from his old haunts. For some years the ex-champion walker has been a resident of Shenandoah, Pa., but he has given up the business in which he was engaged there, and now has in contemplation a return to Gotham. He also has a hankering for an active life in the athletic world again, and for a resumption of his former vocation as trainer and ground keeper, in which he was very successful for years, having had charge of a number of the leading long and short distance pedestrians and others after he retired from the track himself. Jim is still hale and hearty, and should prove the right man for any athletic club in need of the services of a trainer and trackmaster. and trackmaster.

THE KING OF BALLADS. I Love You, Sweetheart.

Song with waltz refrain B-flat, 3, F to F,
BY LUE VERNON,
FREE TO PROFESSION: ORCHESTRA PARTS, 10c.
The words describe the faithful love of a maiden, from youth to old age, for her sailor lover, who was drowned at sea. The beautiful melody is sympathetically arranged with the sentiment of the words. A sweet, touching song that melts the heart, hence a sure winner and a gem for public singers.

Trilby and Little Billie. Waltz song and chorus A-flat, 3, E to F, By THOMAS M. BOWERS. Simple, sweet melody with appropriate words; the only Trilby song published true to the sentiment of the story. Will be ready June 1. Professionals mailing programmes then, will receive copies free.
